

What are you good at?

- Rating your transactions
- Having ideas for things we should make instead of war
- Asking people where they learned to dance like that
- Making a mockery of the proceedings
- Getting fruit cup ratios right
- Sleeping in papasan chairs
- Letting it be known when you contribute to the tip jar
- Teaching people how to burp at will
- Keeping your place on X-Y graphs
- Finding headphones that don't pop out while exercising
- Fixing zippers
- Hosting pay-per-view events at your place
- Swaying during concerts
- Having ringtones that give people pause
- Being on top of fad diets
- Reading deep truths into the way people part their hair
- Waiting until they iron out the bugs
- Winning at the claw crane
- Not being confined to one genre
- Convincing people to have extramarital affairs with you
- Going on to do interesting things
- Keeping track of all the neighborhood pets

Andy Selsberg was profiled in the April 8 edition of the Printers Row Journal

Reprinted from YOU ARE GOOD AT THINGS by Andy Selsberg by arrangement with Perigee, a member of Penguin Group (USA) Inc., Copyright (c) 2012 by Andy Selsberg. To learn more, visit <http://bit.ly/HbXHjD>

What are you good at?

- Feeling wistful about old soda logos
- Communicating your appreciation by whistling
- Opening doors while carrying things
- Conveying nuance in car horn honks
- Dressing down blazers
- Remembering old candies
- Remembering old candy prices
- Pointing out where they make their money
- Ignoring the signs (traffic)
- Ignoring the signs (romantic)
- Ignoring the signs (cosmic)
- Adding extra belt holes that look natural
- Paraphrasing
- Achieving greatness
- Enjoying the silence
- Winning most-improved awards
- Knowing when you've had enough
- Not acting too eager in front of the mailman
- Subtly signaling people when they have food in their teeth
- Picking up on subtle signals that you have food in your teeth

Andy Selsberg was profiled in the April 8 edition of the Printers Row Journal

Reprinted from YOU ARE GOOD AT THINGS by Andy Selsberg by arrangement with Perigee, a member of Penguin Group (USA) Inc., Copyright (c) 2012 by Andy Selsberg. To learn more, visit <http://bit.ly/HbXHjD>